In Washington Kentucky's freak Senator is called "Deboe, the Silent Man."

GEN. EGAN can get some new bouquets to toss Miles if he will read the compliments now being exchanged by certain Louisville editors.

SENATOR GOEBEL is going to announce his candidacy for Governor next week. The secret of his candidacy has been well kept for over a year.

SPEAKER REED smokes cigarettes, but he does not wear his trousers rolled up when it rains in London. He does not part his hair—because he is bald.

GEN. EAGAN's vituperative statement regarding Gen. Miles brings a very timely comment from Gen. Breckinridge, who says "what we need in the War Department is a set of gentlemen."

COL. JOHN THOMPSON, of Harrodsburg, has been telling the Washington reporters what he has read in the stars. He says that Kentucky Democrats will nominate and elect Hardin, control the next legislature and make Joe Blackburn Senator.

Out in Kansas

lives a happy wife. She writes: "I have used Mother's Friend before two confinements. The last time I had twins, and was in labor only a few minutes. Suffered very little." The reason why does expectant mothers so much good is because it is an external liniment, to be applied upon the outside, where much of the strain comes. It helps because the pores of the skin readily absorb it, and it comes into direct contact with and is absorbed by the parts involved. Morning sickness is quickly banished, and nervousness is kept completely away. The sense of dread and foreboding is not experienced, even during labor itself. Confinement is short and almost without pain. Recovery is quick and sure. Best of all, Mother's Friend benefits the unborn just as much as the expectant mother, and when the little one comes it will be strong, lusty and healthy.

Druggists sell Mother's Friend for $1 a bottle. Send for our free book on the subject, finely illustrated.

THERE are eggs and eggs. The egg of yesterday looks, feels, measures and weighs like the egg of last month, but there's a difference in another respect, and that difference is worth money. It's just so with laundry. The difference between good work and poor is slight to the unpracticed discernment, but it's a difference that counts every time. It's a difference that changes your laundry bill from an expense to an investment. We do good work—it will cost no more than poor work but its worth double the difference.

Copper Colored Splotches.

There is only one cure for Contagious Blood Poison—the disease which has completely baffled the doctors. They are totally unable to cure it, and direct their efforts toward bottling the poison up in the blood and concealing it from view. S. S. S. cures the disease positively and permanently by forcing out every trace of the taint.

I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. Before I became convinced that the doctors could do no good, I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was greatly improved and was delighted with the result. The large red splotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger, and my appetite greatly improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass.

H. L. MYERS, 100 Mulberry St., Newark, N. J. Don't destroy all possible chance of a cure by taking the doctor's treatment of mercury and potash. These minerals cause the hair to fall out, and will wreck the entire system.

S. S. S. For Blood is PURELY VEGETABLE, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no potash, mercury, or other mineral. Becks on the disease and its treatment mailed free by Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

A Brazilian Indian Story.

Here is a Brazilian Indian story, says the New York Times. The jaguar and the monkey met. The jaguar had a luscious bunch of plantains which the monkey craved. "I will gladly give you the plantains," said the jaguar, "providing you catch a fawn for me." "Agreed," cried the monkey. "But," added the jaguar, "if you don't get the fawn you must promise to let me bite a mouthful out of you." "Agreed," once more cried the gleeful monkey. The monkey ate the plantains, and the little matter about the fawn quite slipped his memory.

Then one day the jaguar met the monkey and insisted on taking his pay out of the monkey's hide. The business, becoming serious, was left to the peccari to decide. "It seems all right enough," said the peccari, "only this: How am I to determine what is the exact size of a jaguar's mouthful and also where is he to bite? He had better refer the matter to the big snake." The big snake took the subject under consideration. His judgment was that he would have to swallow the jaguar, the monkey and the peccari. The jaguar and peccari he did at once assimilate, but the monkey, being nimble, escaped.

A Burglar's Mistake.

"When I looked into the dining room of a house that I was in one night," said the retired burglar, "I saw a man sitting in a chair perched upon the dining room table. That seemed a singular place for a man to get to sit, drunk or sober, but I thought I'd have to give him a chance to get tired of sitting there and go to bed before I began, for if I didn't he might wake up any minute and interrupt things. So I took a seat in a big leather chair in the library, next room, and waited for him to wake up. When I'd waited what I thought was a reasonable time without hearing from him, I looked in again, and there he was, still sitting there, just the same. "But this time, even in that light, there was something peculiar about him, and I ventured to turn my own light on him now, and then I saw that it wasn't a man at all, but a suit of clothes, with a hat on top, set up there to dry after being wet in the rain. The man that had worn them had been abed and asleep for hours, but his clothes had served for a scarecrow mighty well, for I'd sat there waiting for them to go to bed so long that it was now too late for business."—New York Sun.

Clothespins.

Clothespins are an American commodity. Some clothespins are made in Sweden and in Scotland, but they are big and clumsy, twice the size of the American pins and whittled out by hand. Clothespins are made chiefly of beech and of maple, but some are made of tupelo wood. They are made entirely by machinery, counted into boxes containing 720 each by machinery, and the boxes are nailed up by machinery. It might almost be said that blocks of wood fed to machines at one end come out boxed clothespins at the other. They are made and sold wonderfully cheap.

There are two grades of clothespins, firsts and seconds. First grade pins can be bought for 35 cents a box. The production of clothespins is enormous, millions of boxes annually. The consumption in this country keeps pace with the growth of the population, and great numbers are exported. Even people in the trade wonder what becomes of all the clothespins.

What Bothered Him.

"When I was a young man," says a well known civil engineer, "I was surveying the route of a proposed railway. An old farmer with whom I stopped for a time admitted one day, when he saw me figuring in the field, that mathematics always seemed a wonderful thing to him. Being young and enthusiastic, I began to enlarge its wonders, telling him how we could measure the distances to different planets, and even weigh them; how we could ascertain the height of mountains without scaling them and many other things which I meant should astonish him.

"You can imagine how he set me back when he replied to this brilliant array of facts by saying: 'Yes, yes, them things does seem kinder cur'us, but what allus bothered me was to understand why you have to carry one for 30'ry ten, but if you don't the darned thing won't come out right.'"—New York Tribune.

"Billington's Sea."

There is tangible evidence that the pious passengers of the Mayflower were not entirely without a sense of humor. Back of Plymouth over the hill upon which they planted their cannon is a large fresh water pond, perhaps a mile in diameter, which, it appears from the records, was discovered by John Billington while he was prowling around one night, probably on a scouting expedition looking for Indians. In the morning he reported that he had found the sea in that direction and there was a lively dispute between him and the other pilgrims as to the accuracy of his information. He stuck to his theory with the same tenacity that he adhered to his religion, and to this day that pond is called "Billington's sea."—Chicago Record.
